| 14:45–15:00 | Socio-Spatial Gradients as Contested Boundaries: Nonlinear, Asymmetric, and Spatially Differentiated Effects on Property Crime — Yiwei Xia                       |
| 15:00–15:15 | Towards Inclusive Mobility Modeling: Characterizing and Evaluating Elderly Trajectory Patterns in Urban Systems — Mengying Zhou · REMOTE SPEAKER                 |
| 15:15–15:30 | Mapping Strategic Narratives in Chinese State Media: A Sentence-BERT Analysis of Russia–Ukraine and Israel–Palestine War Coverage — Yuhang Deng · REMOTE SPEAKER |

SESSION 2 — SEQUENCE ANALYSIS AND LIFE-COURSE DYNAMICS

BUTLER ROOM · CHAIR · DANIEL ROMERO

|             |                                                                                                                                                                 |
|-------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 14:30–14:45 | Embedding-based Measures of Life-Course Volatility and Disorganization in Multidimensional Trajectories: the Case of the 1970 British Cohort Study — Zerui Tian |
| 14:45–15:00 | Representation Learning and Clustering for Multi-Domain Sequence Analysis: An Application to Dutch Register Data — Maximilian Reichert                          |
| 15:00–15:15 | Measuring Divergence and Convergence in Sequence Analysis: A Spell-Based Extension of Longest Common Prefixes — Yuqi Liang and Jan Meyerhoff-Liang              |
| 15:15–15:30 | MD-CLARA: Scalable Medoid-Based Clustering for Multidomain Sequence Analysis — Yuqi Liang and Jan Meyerhoff-Liang                                               |

AFTERNOON BREAK

|             |                     |
|-------------|---------------------|
| 15:30–16:00 | Break · Dining Hall |
|-------------|---------------------|

SESSION 3 — POLITICAL DISCOURSE, FRAMING, AND COMPUTATIONAL TEXT ANALYSIS

CHESTER ROOM · CHAIR · DANIEL VALDENEGRO

|-------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 14:30–14:45 | I disagree, because: attributional divides in online redistributive discourse — Yan Wang                              |
| 14:45–15:00 | Collaboration and Conflict in the Redditverse: Longitudinal Network Dynamics in Protest Communities — Janine Schröder |
| 15:00–15:15 | Stance and Framing: Ideological Bias in Generative AI on China-Related Topics — Jianglin Xiang                        |
| 15:15–15:30 | Inferring Scientific Continuation Behavior from Administrative Funding Data — Xueyan Han                              |

SESSION 4 — COMPUTATIONAL SCIENCE OF SCIENCE

MAIN LECTURE THEATRE · CHAIR · CHARLES RAHAL · ONLINE AUDIENCE

|             |                                                                                                                                                                   |
|-------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 16:00–16:15 | The Division of Labor Paradox: How Funding Shapes Team Organization and Scientific Innovation — Meiling Li                                                        |
| 16:15–16:30 | Whose Voice Counts? Bridging the Digital Consultation Gap with Multilingual NLP and Synthetic Citizen Population — Ishaan Saxena · REMOTE SPEAKER                 |
| 16:30–16:45 | Absence of Evidence Is Not Evidence of Absence: Text-Decidability in Automated Open-Science Assessment — Juuso Repo                                               |
| 16:45–17:00 | Minibinder Lab: The Reliability Gap of Agents for Designing High Quality Protein Binders — Anda-Raluca Epure                                                      |
| 17:00–17:15 | Are LLMs Cultural Amplifiers? Replicating Human Mate Preferences with Silicon Samples Across Six Countries — Yuqian Huang · REMOTE SPEAKER                        |
| 17:15–17:30 | Mapping Reviewable Discretion in Access-to-Information Laws: A Social Computing Framework for Multilingual Legal Text Measurement — Shuaiyu Yang · REMOTE SPEAKER |

SESSION 5 — LLMs AS SOCIAL SIMULATORS AND MEASUREMENT INSTRUMENTS

|-------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 16:00–16:15 | Aligned Items, Broken Inferences: When to Trust Large Language Models in Social Survey Simulation — Zhuoren Jiang and Chenxi Lin                                                                                                                |
| 16:15–16:30 | Are LLMs Reliable Judges? Evidence from Subjective, High-Stakes Assessment — Caiyun Wang and Yuanyi Zhen                                                                                                                                        |
| 16:30–16:45 | When the Same Online Insight Targets Women or Men: Chinese Aggressiveness Ratings by Humans and LLMs Across Response Formats — Xuan Bao                                                                                                         |
| 16:45–17:00 | A Study on Adverse Childhood Experiences and Subjective Well-being of Chinese Adolescents Based on AI-Simulated Samples: The Mediating Role of Belongingness and the Moderating Role of Social Support — Jiahao Zhang, Wenbin Du and Zheng Zhou |
| 17:00–17:15 | Exploring Relational Structure in Language Model Representations — Mingyue Liu                                                                                                                                                                  |

SESSION 6 — AI AND INEQUALITY IN WORK AND SCIENCE

CHESTER ROOM · CHAIR · DANIEL VALDENEGRO

|             |                                                                                                                                  |
|-------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 16:00–16:15 | Where Are the Limits of Prediction? — Xiang Wan                                                                                  |
| 16:15–16:30 | Spatial Structure and Evolution of AI Labor Demand in China: Evidence from Job Advertisements — James Ng                         |
| 16:30–16:45 | AI Widens the Gap: How Career Stage Shapes the Benefits of AI Adoption in Science — Jiandong Zhang                               |
| 16:45–17:00 | Women Experience a Compound Disadvantage When Adopting Artificial Intelligence in Scientific Research — Xitong Li                |
| 17:00–17:15 | The uneven embedding of AI in scientific workflows: Technological generations and the restructuring of scientific work — Rong Ni |

BREAK BEFORE THE EVENING PROGRAMME

|                      |                                                                                                                        |
